NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—[By the Asso ciated Press.] Russell Sage, the millionaire broker, escaped death by a miracle today. His office and the entire and Empire building, in which it was, was shaken to the very foundation by the explosion of a dynamite bomb hurled by a crank who made a demand on Sage for the immediate payment of $1,250,000, his ultimatum being, in case of refusal, the death of the millionaire, the crank himself and those employed in the office. Never in the history of the metropolis, is it probable, that an event has occurred that for a time caused more excitement in Wall street and lower Broadway. Fully 50,000 people were drawn to the scene of the explosion and for an hour the police were powerless to bring order out of the chaos. It was just twenty minutes

THE EXPLOSION CAME with a force that was absolutely startling, completely wrecking the second floor of the building, throwing pedestrians in the street to the ground and startling people for blocks around. Those close at hand saw a man blown through one of the windows of Sage's office into Rector street. A few min-utes later Sage himself, with blood streaming down his face and hands, was helped out into the street and taken to O'Connell's drug store just below Wall street on Broadway. There, also, was carried the man blown out of the window. Within ten minutes after the explosion Dr. Munn, the physician of Jay Gould, was at the side of Sage and personally attended to his injuries, which proved to have to favore the transfer of the state of the s to be not of a serious nature. The hair and eyebrows of the millionaire were burned and his face and hands were hurt, by small particles of glass and plaster, the result of the explosion.

When the police arrived in force the building was quickly cleared of all persons and search made in the wrecked offices. Just inside of the door of the general offices was found the trunk of a man in offices was found the trunk of a man in a state that rendered recognition nearly impossible, the head having been sevvred from the body. A pointed reddish beard gave the appearance of an educated man which was enhanced by brown curls of hair and a heavy mustache that adorned the upper lip. When the body was taken up it was found to have been torn into shreds by the explosson. The interior of the offices plainly showed that the force of the explosion was something terrific. the securities in it had been blown out and lost. Quickly gathering together what he found he placed them in a small safe and had it removed to the office of the Manhattan Railway Company in the same building.

In the afternoon the firemen found among the debris a leg, thought to be that of a woman; whether it is or not has not been discovered. Russell Sage never employed a woman typewriter, and, as this fact is well established, the supposition is if the leg is that of a woman it is all that is left of one of his put and call customers who was in the put and call customers who was in the office at the time.

A RAILEOAD MAN'S EXPERIENCE. Chase James, a railroad man and resident of Chattanooga, Tenn., had an appointment with Sage at 12 o'clock and had an experience he will never forget. He says: "I called at Sage's office at 12 o'clock and found him out. A seat was offered me in the main office near a dark. Liceh it and small Secret.

was offered me in the main office near a desk. I took it and awaited Sage's return. Sitting on the bench near the wall I noticed a man perhaps 5 feet 8 inches in height. He wore a plug hat and had a pointed beard and heavy brown moustache. At about 12:15 Sage came in, and greeting me, asked me into his private office. Sage had just removed his hat and asked me to be seated, when his clerk entered and said something to him clerk entered and said something to him which I did not hear. Turning to me, he said, Excuse me a moment, and passed through the door into the main office. The door closed behind him and office. The door closed behind him and I waited, pushing my chair over to the wall and facing the door through which Sage had gone. It might have been two or three minutes when the explosion came. I was blown nearly to the ceiling, and the chair on which I sat was smashed to pieces. I fell down all in a heap. Dust and small particles of plaster and smoke filled the room. I was completely dazed and did not know what to do. I remember making my way through the passage from which the explosion had blown the door into the main office. There I met Sage bloot the main office. the main office. There I met Sage blood dripping down his face and hands, his clothes torn and rent and covered with clothes torn and rent and covered with dirt and dust.

"When he saw me he said: 'How shall we get out?' Wait,' I replied, until this dust settles. I think we will be all right as the worst must be over.' Then I recovered my senses and taking him by the arm led him down stairs into the street."

Among the debris of the wrecked offices was found the remains of a silk hat, evidently worn by the man who gave the name of Wilson, and in one corner of Sage's private office where James was sitting alone at the time of the explosion a man's hand was found. Washington Connor was in his office on the Broadway front of the building and on the same floor with Sage when the explosion came. Connor was out of the building among the first, and assisted Sage to the drug-store.

THE BOOM-THROWER'S REMAINS.

The coroner made an examination of the remains found in the office, and the remains found in the office, and from the mangled mass took a seven-chamber bull-dog revolver. This was all that could be found by which identification could be made. What was left of the body was laid out in an undertaker's office, on Greenwich street. It was not much; the head was there, blackened, but neither cut nor disfigured in any way. It was cut off at the top of the neck, and looked for all the world like the mask of a man 35 or 40 year old, with a full beard that might have been long, but was now burned in close to the chin and cheek. Then there was a leg, the right one; the left foot, one hand, and that was all. The body proper was gone. Of neither chest nor abdomen was a trace found. Shreds of clothing were found, showing that the man wore trousers of blue-black plaid, a black overcoat and long black stackings that wight have

Russell Sage made the following statement to inspector Byrnes this even-ing: "I came out of my office, having been sent for, and found a man with a satchel. He handed me a card bearing satchel. He handed me a card bearing the name of H. D. Wilson. He said he came from J. D. Rockefeller, and handed me a written letter in a sealed envelope. It was addressed to me. I found it was a demand upon me for the found it was a demand upon me for the payment of $1,250,000. The letter stated that if the money were not given up at once to the presenter of the letter he would blow me, himself and the entire office up with dynamite. I read the letter, and, placing it in the envelope, handed it back to him and turned to go into my private office when the explosion occurred."

Coroner Messemer went to the Chambers street hospital and took the antemortem statement of Frank Robertson, offices plainly showed that the force of the explosion was something terrific. All the partition walls were blown down and sashes and window frames forced outward. The ceiling had been blown down and the floor forced downwards, rendering it unsafe to walk upon it. Desks and chairs were overturned and hurled into an indescribable mass and every piece of glass in the big air-shaft that ran to the roof was shivered. A search quickly showed that the body of the man with the pointed beard was the only one among the debris. In the meantime the crowds in the street grew larger, trains from up town bringing thousands to the scene, all impelled by curiously. For an hour confusion reigned.

ALBANT (N. Y.,) Dec. 4.—[By the Associated Press.] The dynamite crank is supposed to be Hiram D. Wilson, aged 45, an escaped lunatic and a native of Glen's Falls, Warren county. Wilson escaped previously from Middletown and other asylums. His worst signs of in-sanity developed fourteen years ago when he kept the Bolton House on Lake George. He was of late years talking George. He was of late years talking of making horses go faster than any have ever gone and of patent rights. Wilson, after a short term in the insane asylum, would be discharged as cured or he escaped. He generally celebrated his freedom by making attempts to kill some one who refused to meet his demands for money.

Several years ago he attempted to kill a man whom he had asked for money to set him up in business. On another occasion when W. J. Arkell was in Albany Wilson made a demand on him, threatened to kill him and even on him, threatened to kill him and even attempted to assault him in his office. He had also threatened the life of Good-win Brown, one of the State Lunacy Commissioners.

MANY MEN DROWNED.

A Terrible Disaster in the Hudson River.

Iwelve Barges Upset in Rough Water Twenty Men Drowned-A Dozen Bodies Recovered-Searching for the Victims.

By Telegraph to The Times.

New YORK, Dec. 4.—[By the Associated Press.] The Tribune's Haverstray dispatch says that twelve barges loaded with brick, towed by the Cornell Tow ing Company's steamboat Townsend coming down the Hudson, when opposite Croton Point, were upset about 6 o'clock this evening and about twenty persons were drowned.

When at Croton Point the swash of the river was so great that the tug was compelled to round to, thus forcing the barges to ride each other. Being loaded and the tide washing high they immediately upset. There were sixty men on the twelve barges, and only about thirty have come to the shore. The accident is attributed by many to the carelessness of the pilot of the tug, W. C. Cur ran.

A boatman on the barge Louise, who has just arrived from his swim ashore, says: "We were playing the concer-ting in the cabin at the time of the accident. I ran on deck only to see one scow run on top of another. The boats did not sink, but toppled over. Upon each barge were five men, makina sixty in all. Of these only about thirty have come ashore.

HAVERSTRAW (N. Y..) Dec. 4.—Tugs are out all over the river in the hope of saving any who may have clung to the bottom of the capsized barges. But little hope is entertained as to the safety of the remainder of the crew. Twelve men are known to have been drowned from the different boats. Great ex-citement prevails in the village.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—The Herald's account of the Hudson River drowning disaster says that it is thought twenty lives were lost. Ten bodies had been recovered up to midnight. The storm came upon the barges just as they reached Croton Point, and the waves were so heavy they began to wash over the tow-boat. To save her from foundering it was necessary to heave to necessary to heave to with head to The moment the tow line was cast sea. The moment the tow line was cast off the barges began to drive upon one another and knocked about. Some had Some caught one another and the combined force of the wind and waves turned them bottom up.

No warning seems to have been given by the tug people when they heaved to. The first the men in the barges knew, their boats were smashing into each other, upsetting and sinking. Some had time to rush on deck and jump into the water.

Many must have been caught in the cabins like rats in a trap and drowned. In all the barges there were at least fifty persons, and only thirty have come ashore alive. It may be that some men managed to climb on the capsized barges.
At 1 o'clock this morning tugs which went out to the rescue have not re-

THE SPEAKERSHIP. Springer Having Hard Work to Hold His Forces Together.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4 .- [By the Associated Press.]. There are rumors late tonight of a serious defeat in Springer's ranks, but he vigorously denied them. Friends of Mills are making strenuous attempts to force Springer out of the race by securing Newberry, Fithian and Wike of the Illinois delegation. It is understood these gentlemen have resolved to desert Springer and go to Mills on the first ballot. A meeting of the Illinois delegation was called. It did not adjourn till 2 o'clock. At the instance of Newberry, Fithian, Forman and Wike a resolution was passed by a vote of 8 to 5 expressing the conviction that Springer could not be elected. Springer then appeared before the delegation and asked their opinion on the situation. It is estimated that over 40,-000 persons in Berlin have been attacked with influenza since November

. The disease is pronounced of a much many of those connected with the various departments. A similar state of affairs exists in the different public offices; even railroad lines and other concerns having a large number of employés are affected. Hospitals are crowded to their utmost capacity. From many parts of the country come reports of widespread suffering from the disease.

Shocking Disclosures of the Evils of the Barmald System. LONDON, Dec. 4.—[Copyright, 1891, by the New York Associated Press.] The revelations made before the labo commission anent barmaids' hours of work, and the terms on which they are employed, have obliged the commission sioners to take evidence privately. The witnesses deposed that many employers made it a condition of the employment of harmaids that the relationship of the employment of harmaids that the relationship of t ployment of barmaids that they should encourage immodest advances. Specific cases were referred to. In a host of in-stances the working hours amounted to over 100 weekly. The whole tendency over 100 weekly. The whole tendency of the evidence is against employing barmaids except under strict legislative control.

The President and Cabinet Resolved to Have Full Reparation and an Apology or Resort to Force.

By Telegraph to The Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—[By the Associated Press.] Secretary Tracy issued an order detaching the Newark from more virulent type than that which prevailed two years ago and many deaths are reported. So widespread have been its ravages that judicial and to to the South Atlantic station and municipal affairs are interfered with, assume command. The order assigning Admiral Benham to command that station is revoked, and he will probably remain in the United States on waiting orders.' The Newark, it is expected will be placed in Admiral Gherardi's command, as part of the North Atlantic squadron. Admiral Walker's command will comprise five vessels -- his flagship, the Chicago, the Atlanta, Bennington, Yantic and Essex, and with headquar-ters at Montevideo he will have an ef-fective fleet ready for immediate service in either the South Atlantic or South Pacific.

New York, Dec. 4.—A special from Washington, referring to the new orders placing Admiral Walker in command of a strong squadron to rendez-yous at Montevideo, says: "The vessels will then be in easy reach of Chile, and at the same time be South Pacific. not going too far to say that the administration is now pretty well convinced that a satisfactory answer will not be made by Chile to the demand for idemnity, and these vessels may soon be needed to join in a demonstration for bringing Chile to her senses. The President, it is understood, will take a pretty firm stand in his message on this Chilean-matter. The subject was discussed at great length at the Cabinet meeting today, resulting in the approval of the position taken by the President, not going too far to say that the admin of the position taken by the President which, in effect, means that the adminis tration is prepared to insist upon its de-mand for a full reparation and apology if Congress sees fit to authorize a resort to extreme measures."

Will Demand the Refugees.

New York, Dec. 4.—The Herald's special says that charges have been preferred against Vicuna, Godoy, Small, Montt, Carmera and others. Small. Montt. Carmera and others. The charges include violation of the constitution, etc. Three of the accused are in the American legation. Telegrams will be sent to the foreign governments involved, informing them that formal demands have been made on their legations for the surrender of the men wanted.

A Pomona Case Decided by Judge Shaw.

The Falder-Kiefer Damage Suit.Commenced Yesterday.

A New Rule for the Numbering of Supreme Court Cases.

The Abbott Burglary Trial Still in Prog-Resumed Today-New Cases.

The trial of the case of H. Colgrove against the Citizens' Water Company of nona et al., an appeal from Justice dorton's court, occupied the attention of Judge Shaw and the following jury in Department Five yesterday: F. L. Alles, J. Atkinson, Frank Graves, G. Gephardt, M. G. Jones, G. W. Kendall, S. W. La Dow, O. E. Lembeke, H. Merz, G. W. Robbins, C. B. Woodhead and H.

The suit was originally brought to re cover $299, alleged to be due on account oneys expended by plaintiff for medical attendance and nursing furnished to his wife. Margaret H. Col-grove, and for the loss of her services for six months, from June 15, 1889, for six months, from June 15, 1889, when through the negligence of defendant's employes, in not sufficiently packing a trench, excavated for water pipe, on Garey avenue, Pomona, she was thrown from a buggy and seriously iujured. Judgment was rendered for plaintiff as prayed for, but defendant appealed therefrom, claiming that Mrs. Colgrove's horse ran away before it went into the ditch; and that therefore she was guilty of contributory negligence.

After a short deliberation the jury returned a verdict for plaintiff at 5 o'clock, assessing his damages at $232. DECIDED FOR THE PLAINTIFF.

In Department Four yesterday morning the trial of the case of A. Osgoodby ing the trial of the case of A. Osgoodby vs. J. H. Adams, a suit to recover the sum of $914.85 alleged to have been loaned to defendant on May 1, 1888, was commenced before Judge Van Dyke and the following jury: J. W. Arnold, H. W. Brewer, M. J. Blaidsdell, J. H. Betsworth, W. A. Barker, W. Clark, J. F. Dunsmoot, E. B. Jones, J. L. S. Rush, R. Tweedy, M. Wetzel and O. .G

Weyse.

The plaintiff alleged that when defendant borrowed the money sented that he owned an eighth interes in the southwest one-fourth of b'ock 174 in the southwest one-fourth of block 174 of the town of Pomona, and that one W. L. Johnson had agreed to buy the the same. In order to secure the payment of the money the defendant indorsed an order directing the vender to dorsed an order directing the vender to pay plaintif all moneys he was entitled to receive therefrom. The property, however, depreciated when the boom "busted," the agreement was cancelled and defendant failed to pay the debt.

The defendant entered a general denial and alleged that plaintiff, on May 1, 1888, agreed to purchase defendant's interest in the property mentioned for the sum of $914,85, and that the alleged order was really an assignment of deorder was really an assignment of de fendant's interest therein to plaintiff. The jury retired for deliberation at 4:30 o'clock, but ten minutes later a verdict for plaintiff as prayed for was rendered. A stay of execution was granted for ten days. THE FALDER-KIEFER SUIT.

The case of A. J. Falder against O. H. Kiefer, a suit to recover $30,000 dam ages alleged to have been sustained by reason of the false imprisonment of defendant at the instance of plaintiff on March 20, 1890, was called for trial by Judge Van Dyke in Department Four at 4:40 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The defendant's counsel, however, en-tered a plea of abatement, on the ground that there was another case pending in which the same cause of action was involved; argument on this point occupied the court's attention until the hour of adjournment. The case will come up for trial again at 10 o'clock this morning.

QUITE A CONVENIENCE. On and after January 1, 1892, a new system will be adopted in the Supreme Court, whereby the deputies in the branch offices will be enabled to number the cases as they are filed, thereby saving considerable time and trouble to the members of the bar. Los Angeles cases will run from 19,000; those from nence at 18,000 those filed at headquarters will continue with the present numbers.

Court Notes.

When the case of the United States vs. William Baxter, charged with cut-ting timber on Government land, was called for trial in the United States District Court, yesterday morning, District Attorney Cole entered a nelle pross, the evidence being insufficient to warrant a conviction, whereupon Judge Ross dismissed the case and discharged the defendant.

The whole of the afternoon session was consumed in the examination of the witness as to her bills with various tradesmen, most of which were paid by Cohn. The case will be taken up again on Tuesday morning next.

In Department Three yesterday Judge Wade and a jury were again occupied all day in the trial of the case of H. C. Wheeler vs. the Placerita Mining, Milling and Water Company, a suit to determine condicting claims to a mineral claim in the San Fernando district, which was not concluded, and will be taken up again on Tuesday next.

Judge Shaw yesterday ordered a dismissal of the appeal case of N. A. Smith vs. C. W. Clanton, the matter having been amicably settled out of court. The suit was brought in the justice's court at Norwalk to recover $4.50 alleged to be due on account of services rendered.

REFFEL THE BURGLAR.

Details of the Attempted Rescue on the Train.

It Was Only Prevented by the Deter mined Attitude of Depaty Sheriff Isbell - How It Was Arranged

Reffel, while en route to San Quentin in charge of Deputy Sheriff Isbell, a brief account of which was published in the telegraphic columns of THE TIMES, appears to have been a more serious affair than at first appeared. The San Francisco Examiner of Thursday gives the following detailed account:

Among the passengers by the 12:15 ferry boat from Oakland yesterday afternoon were Deputy Sheriff Isbell of Los Angeles and J. C. Reffel. The latter is one of a band of Eastern burglars who have been operat of Eastern burglars who have been operating in Los Angeles county. An extensive jewelry robbery was traced to him, and he was tried, convicted and sentenced to three years in San Quentin. Most of the plunder was recovered by the detectives.

Reflel was evidently one of the most useful members of the gang of burglars, and they plotted to effect his rescue. He has more the appearance of a bank clerk than a bold, bad burglar, but although he has shrouded his former career pretty well, enough is known of him to warrant the belief that he is a desperate character.

While in jail in Los Angeles he gave samples of his prowess as a prison contortion is by relieving himself at will of an "Oregon boot," a combination of leather, lead and iron, in which the feet of refractory prisoners are sometimes incased. He gave other indications that he was one who needed close watching and accordingly he and they were intent on rescuing him when the proper moment came.

Isbell confided his suspicions to his son, who was traveling with him, and also to a couple of Los Angeles gentlemen in the car. They all kept a strict watch, and Reffel digeted and seemed nervous: His confederates retained their silent, indifferent demeanor and did not seem to notice anything that was passing around them. With the cunning of their kind, however, they managed to pass a file to the handcuffed prisoner unobserved.

managed to pass a file to the handcuffed prisoner unobserved.

Last night when the train was rattling over Tehachepi Mountain the Sheriff not ticed that Reffel was steadily working at his handcuffs. He had his hands beneath a folded overcoat at the time. In a twinkling the Sheriff jerked the coat away and there was the file in one of Reffel's hands, while the steel ring connecting the handcuffs was cut nearly through.

Reffel's eyes snapped and he swore, while the gang a few seats away looked as unconcerned as ever.

cerned as ever.

Isbell spoke a few words to his friends to put them on guard, and then he looked steadily at his prisoner.

"There may be dirty work before long." said the officer, "and some of us may lose our lives. I promise you, though, that if there is the least sign of trouble you will be the first to go under. I have a good big rethe right reast sign of Touties you will be the fight of go under. I have a good big re-liable 44 in my right hand now, and if you make a move that can be construed into a signal to those fellows yonder I'll send a bullet through you as sure as you're sitting there."

bullet through you as sure as you're sitting there."
Reffel was silent, but his face grew ashy, and that was an eloquent signal to his part ners that the plans for a successful rescue had been foiled.
They grasped the situation and disappeared quietly when the traffix eached Bakersheld.
Still, is bell kept very close to his man, and when they arrived here he obtained the assistance of Sergeant Langford and Officer Mahoney in transferring him to the Sausalito ferry-boat.
On the way up to San Quentin Reffel ad-

Mahoney in transferring him to the Sausalito ferry-boat.

On the way up to San Quentin Reffel admitted that there had been a scheme to rescue him. He was to give a signal when he had filed the handcuff-ring through, and then the gang were to make a rush and overpower the Sheriff, handling the prisoner a pistol with which to help himsif to freedom. He says he was as well satisfied with the way things had turned out, for lives would have been sacrificed, and, after all, a three years' sentence was not worth all that bother.

Reffel is classed as a Chicago crook. He claims to have $6000 worth of jewelry and stuff planted that will come in handy when his term at San Quentin has expired.

On Sundays the Southern California Railway Company, Santa Fé route, will sell round-trip tickets from Los Angeles to all points at one fare for the round trip. Tickets to Riverside, Colton, San Bernardino or Redlands are good going or returning either via Orange or Pasa-

The Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce met yesterday after-noon at 3 o'clock. There were present Directors Germain, Toler, Davies man, Klokke, McGarvin and Lankershim. Director Germain occupied the chair. C. D. Willard acted as secretary.

The secretary tendered a financial re showing a balance in bank of $848.29. Bills to the amount of $316.25 were audited and ordered paid. The resignation of Dr. R. W. Miller was read and accepted. A communication from E. M. Wardall a member of the California delegation to the recent Farmers' Alliance Convention in Indianapolis, was read and ordered filed. This communication was as follows: To the Officers and Members of the Chamber of Commerce: I will improve this, the first spare moment, to write to you concerning the California exhibit, so successfully made the California exhibit, so successfully made under your management at Indianapolis during the annual meeting of the supreme council of the Farmers' Alliance and Indus-trial Union, held at that place November 16 to 27.

The car was attached to our train and went through on passenger time nearly to Chicago, where it was side-tracked some hours with a hot-box. Immediately upon its arrival Maj. Truman hurried it forward, in charge of Mr. Cole, to Indianapolis.

We examined a number of rooms and selected the corner room of the English Block, three doors from California head-quarters, which enabled us to render Manager Cole more effective assistance than could have been given at a greater distance. We soon had the goods arranged, inding could have been given at a greater distance.

We soon had the goods arranged, finding it necessary to lock the crowd out for a short time while unpacking. The weather was cold and stormy nearly all the week, yet early and late our room was crowded with people, eager to see our products, hear our explanations and learn the names of many articles new to them.

Our cotton and tobacco was critically examined by men engaged in growing these staples. "Your soil is too rich for tobacco," one gentleman said. "The flavor is good, but the leaf is too thick; plant closer and reduce the size."

Every visitor was prepared to concede.

one gentleman said. "The flavor is good, but the leaf is too-thick; plant closer and reduce the size."

Every visitor was prepared to concede all that California claims for her fruit, but the splendid array of cereals and mammoth vegetables raised without fertililizing, and frequently without irrigation, was a genture suprise to thousands, and I heartily commend the judgment displayed. by Superintendent Wiggins in selecting for those departments. Farmers are apt to think very little of a big melon, beet, sweet potato or pumpkin, but those things are conclusive evidence. To illustrate, a gentleman, after carefully and quietly examining the display, said: "Well, Mr. W. I among the display said: "Well with the well of the said of the

He gave other indications that he was one who needed close watching and accordingly he got it.

When Sheriff Isbell left Los Angeles with his prisoner four or five suspicious-looking characters occupied the same car. They kept close together, and from the fact that they were phenomenally silent the Sheriff's suspicions were aroused. Subsequent events proved that Isbell had not mistaken his men. They were confederates of Refiel, and they were intent on rescuing him when the proper moment came.

Director Forman moved that a committee of nine be appointed to formulate a plan for the construction and maintenance of a boulevard to the Soldiers' Home, and also to go before the board of directors and urge upon them the necessity for immediate action. After some discussion, in which Mr. Forman explained what methods were in vogue in the northern part of the State and how they could be applied to this section, the motion was carried and the foilowing were appointed as said committee: Charles Forman, C. ROUGH AT REDONDO.

The Steamer Pomona Unable to Land Freight at the Wharf. The steamer Pomona, which arrived at San Pedro yesterday morning, hada rough time at Redondo, a strong westerly wind and heavy swell making it almost impossible to land at the wharf. She managed, with much difficulty, to land her passengers, but was compelled to go to sea without landing her freight after remaining at the wharf nearly a half hour, and doing considerable damage to both vessel and wharf.

The Pomona will proceed on her voyage to San Diego without stopping at Newport, the heavy seas making it very risky to attempt a landing at the Newport wharf. SINGULAR ACCIDENT.

Horse Killed by Contact With an Elec-tric Wire.

Early yesterday morning a singular accident took place on Third street near Wolfskill avenue. Ex-Chief Engineer of the Fire Department F. A. Strohm and two of his men were driving down Third street to Strohm's soda water works, when the horse became entangled in a wire. The animal fell violently to the ground and the men were thrown from their seats and were considerably bruised, but received no seri-

They realized that they had been struck by lightning, but did not know where it came from until they saw a live telephone wire burning into the flesh of the prostrate horse, who had not been able to rise. He was pulled from the wires as soon as possible and not been able to rise. He was pulled from the wires as soon as possible and would probably have recovered from the shock had not some one grabbed an ax and dashed his brains out.

It is not an uncommon thing for horses to be knocked down by live wires, but it is seldom that they are killed. An examination of the wires showed that the telephone wire was showed that the telephone wire was knocked down by the wind and fell across the trolley wire of the electric road, which gave it so much force that half a dozen telephone boxes in the neighborhood were badly damaged.

NEW ORLEANS people are ambitious and sanguine. They are prophesying that their port will become the greatest shipping port of the country within the next ten years, greater even than New York. They say that the producers in the Northern States west of the Ohio River and in the Southern States west of the Alabama River have found out that they can ship grain, cotton and pork to Europe from New Orleans more cheaply than from any other port. A few days ago a committee of the Kansas Millers' Association visited New Orleans to make arrangements for exporting Kansas flour to foreign countries by way of that port at the rate of 10,000, 000 barrels a year.

Good Old Times and Good Old Prices How prices for family supplies ranged in 1817, the year after the enactment of the low tariff bill of 1816, is shown by excerpts from an old day-book recently discovered at Boscarven, New Hampshire. Dodge, statistician of the United States Agricultural Department, was spending a vacation in his native State, where he "dug up" the old account book in question. transcribed some of the prices, which make curious reading nowadays.

He found that one-half bushel herds grass cost 63 cents; 1 pound coffee, 25 cents; three-fourths pound loaf sugar. 27 cents; one-fourth pound tea, 25 cents; one-fourth pound powder, 17 cents; one-fourth pound shot, 17 cents; 15 eggs, 15 cents; one-half dozen plates, 29 cents; 3 pounds cotton varn No. 9, $2.25; 1 nutmeg, 18 cents; 8 hoes, $2; 28 pounds fish, $1.25; one fourth yard cotton lining, 8 cents; 12 pearl buttons, 17 cents; one-half yard cents; 11/2 yards calico, 75 cents; onehalf yard muslin, 42 cents; 434 yards fulled cloth, $7.92; 1 gill New England rum, 10 cents; 8 yards of black silk, $8; 4 yards of calico, $1; five yards of cambric, $3.05; one-half yard shirting, 84 cents; one gallon West India rum, $1.40; one pound sugar, 20 cents; one felt hat, $1.50; two spelling-books, 50 cents; two pounds veal, 6 cents; one ounce indigo 23 cents; one-half pound Hyson tea, 42 cents; 5 yards of calico, $2.50. It will be seen that everything the farmer had to buy, except New England or West India rum, was much higher than now while eggs were 12 cents a dozen and veal 3 cents a pound. There was also credit for "one-half day's work, 50 cents." The laborer of 1817 had to work a day for two yards of calico, a day for one and one-half yards of shirting, or five pounds of sugar, or one pound of tea. And a day's work then was from "sun to sun."

one-fourth. Licenses have been granted Rain and Lightning. to a beet-sugar company in Pennsylva nia and another in Virginia. Thirteen thousand acres of land were occupied this year.

An interesting discussion is being carried on by correspondents in the columns of the Scientific American on a phenomenon frequently observed in countries where thunder-storms prevail. It has been noticed that a dash of rain generally follows a lightning-flash. The question at issue is whether the rain produces the lightning or the lightning produces the rain. Arguments are presented on both sides.

We would say that both hypotheses are wrong; that the lightning flash and production of rain are simultaneous, and represent parts of a single physical action-the condensation of moisture from the clouds.

It is a well-known principle of physics that matter in process of expan-sion absorbs heat from the adjacent atmosphere or contiguous odies-i. e., makes them colder. the evaporation of ammo nia we produce artificial ice. By a spray of ether we freeze a substance in a minute. The heat thus absorbed be comes latent; it is just so much energy taken up and rendered dormant in the expanded mass. Now, when the expanded mass is suddenly condensed, this latent energy is rendered active again and is given off. We recognize it as heat. When moisture in a cloud is condensed into drops of water the energy given out is in the form of electricity and the electricity produces the lightning-flash. As the action of light is so much more rapid than the action of gravity the lightning is made known to us first. It takes the drops of rain half a minute or so to fall from the cloud to the earth, and thus we have a dash of rain following a flash of light

If this hypothesis is correct it goes a long way towards explaining the intimate relation between electricity and rainstorms. Perhaps it may be found to have some bearing on methods now under trial for producing rain artificially.

It is generally conceded that clouds are electrically charged, and that they are normally positive to the earth's nega tive. Transitions in the electrical state of the atmosphere were frequently observed by Humboldt during his travels in the new continents. "I saw on the banks of the River Apure." he writes (Travels, vol. ii., p. 143,) "what I had often observed on the ridges of the Alps during a storm; that the electricity of the atmosphere was first positive, then nil, then negative. These oscillations from positive to negative were frequently repeated." These several changes occurred within the space of a few minutes, and during the prevalence of considerable atmospheric disturbance. This fact undoubtedly denoted the frequent interchange of electric force between the clouds themselves or between the clouds and the earth. Two opposite charges of equal volume rushing together by the force of attraction would, for the time. neutralize each other and give no manifestation either way. A predominant positive charge encountering a negative cloud would overcome its electric ity and render it positive. Per contra a predominant negative charge would reverse the characteristic of a positive

Query: If we could devise a plan to uddenly evoke from an overhanging cloud its charge of electricity, would that not have a tendency to condense its moisture and precipitate rain? Is this not the secret principle upon which Melbourne, the Kansas rain-maker, works? Might not the Ruggles plan of producing rain by explosions be considerably improved if supplemented by electrical conductors between the upper air and the earth?

Scientists have called Benjamin Franklin's kite into requisition again. An item in a recent issue of the Scien tific American notes an experiment of this kind, in which the experimenter drew from a clear sky an electric charge down a fine wire used in lieu of a kite-string. The the charge; and, by noting the cation of his electrometer, he could tell whether the kite was rising or falling. This is very interesting, inasmuch as it goes to show that the upper air is a great reservoir of electricity, and that the intensity increases with altitude. Now that the discussion is started it would be interesting to hear from some of the meteorologists as to the reason why we seldom have thunder-storms in California. Thunder and lightning are sometimes observed here, but so rarely as to make the occasions very notable During the prevalence of rains in Arizona and on the Colorado Desert in the latter part of summer we are apt to see the eastern heavens lighted with electric flashes. Two or three years ago a thunderbolt struck within the city limits and killed a horse. But that is the only thing, animate or inanimate, that we have ever heard of being struck by lightning in Southern California; (of course we except a few politicians.) During the winter we have plenty of rain at one time and another, but it is seldom, perhaps never, accompanied by electrical manifestations. By the same token, they seldom have thunder-storms in the East during the winter season. That may be a coincidence, but it is no reason. The conundrum remains. Why are thunder-storms less prevalent in winter than in summer? Why is California practically exempt from thunder-

LONDON, Dec. 4.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] The developments in the Russell case on Wednesday whetted the appetites of the scandal lovers of London, and the court was crowde again today. The proceedings were enlivened by a tilt between counsel in regard to the Roberts incident. Dur ing the argument the presiding justice said he intended to get at the root of this matter. He declared it ought to have been put into definite shape as a criminal charge or charge of gross in decency.

The Earl's redirect examination wa resumed this morning. He said that until the Williams girl incident was brought out in court the story of his onnection with her was not Teddington, where she lived, except by members of her family. She is still living at Teddington, and no public re-proach had attached to her. This losed the Earl's testimony. acterized by the great emphasis he laid upon the telling points in the evidence for the petitioner. He declared, however, that the evidence submitted would have no effect upon the reputation of Prof. Roberts. The object of Countess Russell in raising the action was not to obtain money. Her chief reason was that she wished to relieve herself of the obligation of living with a man whose treatment had led to their separation. Referring to the entries in the Earl's diary, Sir Edward said that they were in favor of the Countess. The Earl admitted himself to be in the wrong. Sir Edward said he was glad Earl Russell had an opportunity to deny the impuration connecting him in a discharge the conn the imputation connecting him in a dis-graceful way with Roberts. It had been made quite clear by the exidence of himself and Prof. Roberts that there was no ground for the suggestion of im proper relations between them. The boat train usually goes ahead of the express, but this morning was late and was held at Putnam. After the express passed it started ahead at a high rate of speed. At the scene of the wreck some of the trainmen snatched a flag and ran back, but the engineer of the boat train did not see the man until within 100 feet of the wreck. He reversed his engine, put on the air and with the fireman jumped. The engine of the boat train went half through the Pullman on the rear of the Long Island express, while the tender telescoped the baggage car behind. There were but few passengers on either train and all but one escaped with slight injuries.

An unknown man in the Pullman car was burned to death in the wreckage. Engineer Wild and Fireman Boyce, of the freight train, were seriously hurt. Other trainmen, like the passengers, escaped with slight injuries.

Sy Telegraph to The Times.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] The Times this morning publishes a dispatch from Singapore stating that the foreign consuls tioned at Tein in the province of Peh-chee-zee, about seventy-five miles from Pekin, of which city it is the port, have become so alarmed at the threatening aspect of affairs that they have applied for naval protection. British gunboat Firebrand and a Japanese warship are lying at Tein. The Firebrand, however, is but a small

The dispatch adds that the feeling of animosity entertained for foreigners has spread to the capital, and natives do not hesitate to show their detesta-tion for the "barbarians," as they term all white people, and every day they are becoming more hostile. FRANCE'S LITTLE GAME. Why England Will Go It Alone in Chi-

LONDON, Dec. 4 .- [Copyright, 1891, by the New York Associated Press.] The French government's overtures to the powers for joint diplomatic action at Pekin, accompanied by a naval demonstration at the treaty ports, have met with a direct rebuff from the English and German governments. In diplomatic circles here it is said it needs no special sagacity to discover the French game. Russia has declared her intention to hold aloof from any intervention, but her European ally, acting for her, aims to involve England in hostile treatment of the Chinese govern-ment, with which, ere long, England may find it advisable to concert in action against its common enemy.

The overtures of France were intimated to the Chinese embassy here and also wired to the British minister in China, whose reply advised independ-ent English action if any be required. This enabled Lord Salisbury to tell France that there was no necessity for joint or other interference in China.

A MISSIONARY'S VIEWS.

The Massacres Probably Committed by a BRUSSELS, Dec. 4.-[By Cable and Associated Press. In an interview Dr. Van Aertsclarer, rector of the Belgian missions in northern China, who is in this city, stated that the Mongolian prince reported killed by the rebels was converted to Christianity by the Belgian missionaries. The Doctor further stated that he did not believe the members of the Temperance League guilty of committing the outrages laid to them. The league, he said, was composed of devout men who were very friendly to the missionaries. It was far more probable that the massacres were committed by the Water Lily Society and a supply the water Lily Society was a supply the water than the water Lily Society was a supply were committed by the Water Lily Society, a secret organization which the ciety, a secret organization which the government is making every effort to suppress. BISHOP O'CONNELL.

Death of the Venerable Prelate Last

Last evening Bishop O'Connell, who has had charge of the Catholic Church at Grass Valley during the last twenty-eight years, died at the Sisters' Hospital. The reverend father came to this Coast in pioneer days and is one of the best-known priests on the Coast.

He has spent almost his whole life in California mining camps and no man on the Coast could boast of having more friends among the miners. Father O'Connell was known and loved by every miner in California.

He came down here some weeks ago for his health and also to take a rest, but contracted a severe cold which hastened his death. He was 80 years old and came to America from Ireland when a very young man.

So far as known he has no relatives in this country. His remains will be taken to Grass Valley for interment.

A FALLING WALL.

It Buries a Gang of Men in Its Ruins at St. Paul.

Eight Laborers Instantly Killed-Three Others Fatally Injured—Most of the Dead Frightfully Mangled by the Falling Bricks.

St. PAUL, Dec. 4.-[By the Associ-Press. | The most horrible accident that ever occurred in St. Paul took place this aftern-oon. The wall of the Shepard building recently occupied by Farwell, Ozman & Kirkwell fell in, burying workmen beneath the ruins. There are supposed to have been fifteen men be eath the wall at the time it fell, and majority of them were killed or suf-fered injuries which will probably prove fatal. All patrol wagons of the police attempted to organize the laborers who were not under the wall, and get them to work removing the dead and injured. The men were wild with ex-citement, however, and it was some time before more than half a dozen could be induced to go to work. In less than half an hour the men had taken out ten companions, five of whom were killed and five injured, one fatally, Contractor Wilcox was taken out dead and mangled beyond recognition. The wounded were removed to the city hospital and the dead, with the exception of one man, were laid out in the Great Northern freight house, One man was identified as Chris Larsen. The foreman of the gang about the building was frantic with grief and excitement and could not give the names of any of the men, although he knew them all. Neither could he tell the exact number of men under the wall at the time it fell.

There were groans or cries from the injured as the poor fellows were extricated from the ruins by their fellowworkmen. Not one has retained consciousness. The most careful handling possible seemed to be torture most horrible, for the rescuers were not wel drilled to the gruesome task at the out-set, and did not work together as they did state. In their disconcerted efforts they seemed at times to be pulling the men almost to pieces. The faces of the men almost to pieces. The faces of the workmen were almost as ghastly as if they had been dead themselves. A ma-jority of the men were under the south side of the wall, and here the heaviest part of the wall fell.

Only two were taken out from the north side. Eight instantly killed, three fatally injured and four severely cut and bruised is the record which can, to a bruised is the record which can, to a large extent, be credited to the blizzard's advent in this city today. The wall, already weakened by having the supports burned sway, became top heavy when the supporting débris was removed from against it, and went over with a crash before the gale with the result stated. Fifteen men were the result stated. Fifteen men were working close to the center wall in the burned-out Shepard building on East Third street, when the wall, without warning, crashed down on them, burying them beneath. Not one escaped, and all were so terribly mashed and mangled that it was with much difficulty they were identified.

The list of killed is as follows: Edward Wilcox, contractor, John Adams.

CHAPTER XII. - (Continued.) "Monsieur," exclaimed Eric, with a sort of reverent whisper, "you are doing the noblest act of your life!"

"That is easily said," was the reply, "since my life has not yet been a long one, and few of its opportunities for good deeds have been at all amply ex-

"Ah, do not say that! Thousands of your poor would certainly show gratitude enough to deny it. But you are suffering terribly. This strain that you undergo is reflected in your face."

Clarimond sank into a chair. "Yes," said, in a muffled kind of voice, "I am suffering a great deal. The pull, the wrench, is harder than I fancied." the wrench, is harder than I fancied."

As he fixed his eyes upon Eric's face they seemed to ray forth spiritual grandeur. "My friend, I had no other course than this! There are things that a man must do just because he is a man. But if he be a king as well, then the obligation grows double. We have often spoken together on this question of the right of kings. You know how I despise them—how they strike me as but a of kings. You know how I despise them—how they strike me as but a mildewed survival of ancient error. Yet there has always seemed to us something grand, nevertheless, in the idea of a king who could govern himself perfectly while governing his people as well. Then he ceases to represent mere royalty and becomes vested with a tender, yet rugged, paternity. In those rare historic cases where some such human union has existed crowned and throned, I should say that the posand throned, I should say that the pos-sible sacredness and dignity of kings have found their sole true medium of expression. You have seen Dr. Wou-vermann?"

"Yes, monsieur. Luckily I met him just as he was leaving the ball-room, which he smilingly told me was no fit place for a cfergyman." 'We may count on him, then?"

"Oh, yes, monsigur."
"The signal from Lispenard is to be a few tinkles of that silver bell on the

You mean, if she consents?"

"If she consents, yes. If not, he will simply come to me and tell me of his failure, after having conducted her back to the ball. I hope," Clarimond musingly continued, "that she will consent to let Dr. Wouvermann marry them tonight. They have both been through so much heart-breaking tribulation! And if, as you suggest, Mme. Kennaird has certain more ambitious views for her child, that lady will doubtless oppose their marriage in the future with a new zeal born of chagrin. She appears already to have brewed for both of them a prodigious amount of misery. From all that I can learn, her interference has risen between them like a sent to let Dr. Wouvermann marry them ference has risen between them like a column of thick fume, through which they have viewed distortedly one an-other's acts. Her influence has been that of malignancy, and I shall regret it if she remains in Saltravia, provided her daughter (as the wife of Lispenard) shall so choose. But what am I saying shall so choose. But what am I saying, my dear Eric? Lispenard may choose to resign his office—who can tell?"

"I am certain that he will not re sign it, monsieur!" cried Eric. "I am certain, too, that he feels, this hour, as I feel. I am certain he realized, as I do, that you are the soul and center of all that is self-abnegating, grandly genous!"

"Thanks, Eric; those words are rely rich in encouragement. You surely rich in encouragement. You know I do not care for eulogy; but when one strives toward an ideal of king Clarimond, who did whatever he chose, might perhaps do himself the conor to request the hand of her divine study her. The elderly Russian ambassador, overhearing this remark as he presented her with an ice and a glass of champagne, declared that his royal master would never have gone to Denmark for a bride if he had had the delight of seeing "Mademoiselle, votre fille."

approbation, Kathleen suddenly appeared with Alonzo in her wake. Kathleen the wife felt far bolder than if she were Kathleen the unwedded. Or perhaps because she was herself so intoxicated by joy it seemed to her as if a few words delivered aside to her mother might soften the sense of calamity they imparted.

This, however, was not true. Mrs. Kennaird heard her low-voiced tidings and shivered as though an arctic blast had invaded the ball-room.

Meanwhile the ball went on, eddying,

Meanwhile the ball went on, eddying, Meanwhile the ball went on, eddying, whirling, billowing, in that ecstsay of dance beloved by the young of opposite sexes. The sweet mild moans of the violins were raucous screeches in the ears of Mrs. Kennaird, but in other feminine ears they were tender melodies of promise, of elation, of delicious inebriety.

Bianca d'Este heard them, and hoped. The Princess of Brindisi heard them, and half hoped, half doubted.

them, and half hoped, half doubted. Eric Thaxter heard them and sighed because of that mystic and grievous Parisian past, concerning which he had perchance by this time spoken more disclosingly to his dearest friend. Clarimond, King of Saltravia, heard them and thrilled with the pain of sacrifice, though gladdened by that sense of self-conquest which is 'the sweet wages of honor, as a sense of self-debasement is the bitter wages of sin. Alonzo and Kathleen heard them, and the voluminous cadences they breathed built for both heavenly castles of expectancy. them, and half hoped, half doubted.

And so the music played on—music which so throbs, when art is its minister, with souvenirs and prophesies, memories and anticipations.

Angry, austere, choked with a passionate feeling of defeat and insult, the Kennicktond beside her daugh. Angry, austere, choked with a passionate feeling of defeat and insult, Mrs. Kennaird stood beside her daughter, a half hour or so later that night, when Alonzo laid his hand in the hand of Kathleen. The two ladies were waiting for their carriage, cloaked and ready, and at the portals of the palace. "Good-by, good-by," Alonzo said, "till tomorrow."

"Till tomorrow," Kathleen repeated.

"Till tomorrow," Kathleen repeated.
"Till tomorrow, my wife."
"Till tomorrow, busband!"
"Mrs. Kennaird had overheard the two last murmurs of farewell. With her face pale and full of nervous tremors she moved toward Alonzo.
"Till never forgive you," she gasped.
"Never! You've kept her from a crown—a throne!"

but Kathleen caught her mother by the wrist, and with the same ardor of self-assertion which had more than one repelled the spirit of even this woman's insurpassable worldliness and ambition, she affirmed in eager whisper:

"He gives me, mamma, all the crown I want—his love! He gives me all the throne I want—his name and his protection!"

IGNATIUS DONNELLY.

A Letter by Col. Blanton Duncan Defend-ing Him.
The Times has received the following letter and request:

HASTINGS (Minn.,) Nov. 27.—Dear Str: I would regard it as a matter of kindness, as well as of justice, if you would give the enclosed a place in the columns of your paper. Trusting that you may be able to do so, I remain, with great respect,

Very truly yours,

IGNATIUS DONNELLY.

THAT LIBEL SUIT.

Col. Blanton Duncan of Kentucky now a resident of Los Angeles, Cal. having read in the papers the reports of the suit of Hon. Ignatius Donnelly against the Pioneer Press of St. Paul for libel, and that one of the counter charges made against Mr. Donnelly by that paper was that he had been bribed by the Memphis and El Paso Railroad Com-

"Inlanes, Eric; those words are barrely rich in encourregement. You know'l do not care for eulogy; but when one strives toward an ideal of commentation of the counter charges when one strives toward an ideal of commentation of the counter charges and the commentation of the counter charges and another charges are considered. The side of the counter charges in darkness." Just then a little slivery sound reached their cars. Clarimond sprang to his feet and for a brief instant clench themselves at his sides.

"The signal," he said. "She has consented, Go for Dr. Wouvermann, You will be witness, you know. Eric, and I.—" he smiled, but to his observer the smile teemed with a terrible melancholy—"is shall give the bride away."

In the ball-room they had begun to miss the King. When at last he appeared it was in company with Kathleen, Eric and Alonzo. The floor was full of dancers; conversation, stimustreigned in merry and both the stimustreigned in merry was full of dancers; conversation, stimustreigned in merry and the conversation of ertson, Roots, Schenck, Shanks, Shellabarger, Starkweather, Stevens, Stokes, Styver, Tabor, Taylor, Twichell, Van Aerman, B. Vanhorn, H. W. Washburne, Welker, Whittemore, Thomas Williams, W. Williams, John T. Wilson, Windom, Woodward, Young.

ight of seeing 'Mademoiselle, votre jille.''

"Ah, Prince,'' cried Mrs. Kennaird, in her most genial trebles, and with her very acceptable if imperfect French, 'there has never yet been an American gueen. and I imagine there never will be! My poor, innocent child has never dreamed of such an honor, and—really—if it were offered her she would bardly know how to wear it.''

The Austrian and Russian exchanged glances. They were both men of very high rank, and it is probable that they abhorred the tenets of Clarimond while respecting and perhaps loving his character. That he should marry an American girl, though her beauty was brighter than the Spartan Helen's and her breeding beyond Recamier's, no doubt struck them both as the essence of the ridiculous. But while they may (or may not) have thus quickly and tacitly told one another their mutual contempt and disassociates. T. Sanford, New York; Senator Robertson,

In accepting I wrote that I would be the tucky.

In accepting I wrote that I would be the first to denounce anything improper. When full proof of the wrongs came to me I wrote to the treasurer on the 20th of March, 1870, after peremptorily refusing to go to Washington on any terms:

"I have the present duty of inclosing to you the certificate (stock) with authority to cancel it, and to consider that I am not a stockholder. My connection with it has been a matter of publicity, and though declining months since to act for the corporation any longer this is the only method of publicly announcing that I have neither interest in it nor responsibility for its acts."

And, therefore, in the press, and to the Senators and Congressmen, I denounce the robbery that had been committed, and the company was placed in bankruptcy mainly by my efforts.

I presume that nobody will doubt that I knew fully who were the corrupt men engaged—and I have no hesitation in saying that you were "not in it," and that no breath of scandal was whispered about you when scores of public men were freely discussed. Nay, more, Dr. Schmoele vindicated you completely on February 10, 1875. Dr. Schmoele did not get any of the French plunder, I think, and his integrity was never attacked. That surely ought to have left no room to question your reputation in that respect.

You are at liberty to use this in any manner you consider best. Yours truly,

TWO SUCCESSFUL PAIRS.

The Presbyterian Church fair given yesterday in the Carlton Block proved a success beyond all expectations. Before noon cess beyond all expectations. Before noon the decorations had been completed and the booths arranged in most attractive fashion with a great variety of fancy articles, good things to eat and pretty things to wear. From 12 to 2 lunch was served, and the crowd of hungry people that flocked thither was wonderful to behold. Notwithstanding the rush there was no confusion, everybody being served with dispatch by an efficient corps of pretty young ladies. Too much praise cannot be bestowed upon the excellence of the edibles and the culinary skill displayed in their preparation. The booths were librally [atronized during the afternoon and evening, and the receipts of the day were highly satisfactory.

and clear and the atmosphere crisp and bracing.

The downfall, which was vigorous while it lasted, came in the nature of a surprise. At midnight Thursday the sky was clear and gave no hint of the coming storm. One or two of the older residents, however, noticed that the mosquitoes were more numerous than usual, a fact which they said was very suspicious. Shortly before 3, o'clock yesterday morning the rain began falling and there was a steady downpour for four hours. Before 8 the sun had pierced the clouds and an hour later all was bright and smiling.

About half an inch of rain fell. That it will do a vast amount of good goes without aying. It will prepare the ground for lowing and will stimulate wonderfully the orchards and vegetation generally, to say lothing of the improvement it will effect in already taken on its customary winter coating of sticky mud.

A BOY ASSAULTED.

A boy named Harris, who is employed as a driver on the Painter street car line, was assaulted on Thursday night by a resident of North Pasadena. The dimeulty arose over a matter of changing money which had been handed the boy for fare, and as near as can be earned the attack was wholly uncalled for and committed in cowardly fashion. A warrant was issued yesterday for the arrest of the assallant and it is likely that the matter will be thoroughly ventilated in court.

A little harmless shooting took place out on the Simi on Monday, but no one was hurt. Charles Birmingham and a Frenchman named De Crieg are neighbors. On the day in question the latter, according to his own story, killed a calf on some land claimed by Birmingham and was engaged in cutting it up when the latter rode up in cutting it up when the latter rode up with a shotgun in his hand and told him to leave within five minutes. The Frenchm said that he started off and the other punched him in the back, and as a matter of defense he picked up his own gun and shot at Birmingham, the gun being loaded shot at Birmingham, the gun being loaded with bird shot. One or two of the shot took effect in the hand, but did no particular harm. Birmingham came to Ventura, however, and Constable Snodgrass went up and arrested the Frenchman, and today he had an examination. He was held in the sum of $500. There appears to be very little in the case.

SAN BERNARDINO.

A public mass-meeting will be held at the Courthouse this evening at 7 o'clock for the purpose of reorganizing the old Board of Trade. Since last April a paper has been kept in circulation in an endeavor to get 100 men to agree to pay $1 per month to support the board, and it is only within the past ten days that the requisite sum has been guaranteed. Tonight's meeting is called for the purpose of getting all interested together and taking steps preparatory to forming a new organsteps preparatory to forming a new organization. The attendance will doubtless be large, as the want of such an institution has long been felt in this city and throughout the county as well.

The report was substantially as printed in yesterday's Times and was unanimously adopted. It made a recommendation for the appointment of a committee of five to carry out its purposes, and this committee was named as follows: M. J. Daniels, S. C. Evans, George Frost, T. C. Waite and A. P. Johnson, The committee also presented a contract to be signed by the growers, agreeing to sell to no packer who did not enter into the combine. The agreement was drawn up so as not to be binding unless 1000 carloads of oranges were represented. A few signatures were obtained, and it was decided to place the paper in Drake's book-store for further inspection. After authorizing the committee to employ an agent to secure the signatures "of growers, the meeting adjourned subject to call.

[THE TIMES conveys news to Santa Barbara twenty-four hours ahead of the San Francisco papers. The branch office and agency is at No. 713 state street where advertisements, orders for the paper, and news items may be left.;

Mrs. Emma G. Gillingham, department president of the Woman's Relief Corps of California, has just returned from San José, where she superintended an investigation into the affairs of the W.R.C. Home at Ever-green. In an interview with The Times correspondent she says"I met the investigating committee and the members of the advisory board at San Francisco, and we went out to the Home at Evergreen. Several sworn statements of expelled inmates were submitted to the mmittee and the persons referred to in these affidavits were questioned as to their correctness. In general terms it was found that there was little or no cause for the complaints, and the whole thing is believed to be trumped-up declarations of expelled inmates. The two corps at San José who had been urging the investigation were callen upon to formulate charges, but answered that they had no charges to make against the management of the Home."

It is the opinion of the department president that they had been department president that the well-been department president that the well-been department president the second process of the second p

Opening of the Congregational Church Fair—Notes and Personals.

The Congregational Church fair opened last evening with a large attendance and a very entertaining programme. A Trip to Niagara, as illustrated in farce comedy, produced much mirth, and an excellently rendered violin quartette was duly appreciated. The ladies in charge of the various booths did a thriving business during the evening, and the financial success of the fair seems assurred. Tonight the programme and entertainment will be furnished entirely by the children and all friends of the little ones are expected to be present.

Embaiming as an Art.

Fifteen years ago such a thing as preserving the human body for a definite time, by the embaiming process, was practically unknown—although the most advanced minds in the fraternity were then at work, preparing for a better state of things—the hideous "ice box" being the only known agent at that time in use to arrest decomposition until burial—in fact, it has only recently gone out of use entirely. The call for a national meeting, ten years ago, at Rochester. N. Y., was the first effort made to give the effort practical shape. Seventeen States, with several delegates from foreign lands, were present at that meeting. Now these men were the advance guard and set that meeting was the foundation of all the funeral reform that has led up to the present state of efficiency in the profession. The undersigned had the honor of representing the State of Indiana at that meeting, and was elected their first secretary and continued such for several years, until coming to this coast for the health of his family. Now what has been accomplished in the ten or twelve years past? Although we have not yet reached the perfection we are all striving for, we certainly have reached a point in the journey, as the following letter, among many others received of a similar character, will serve to show the most skeptical that a human body can be transported from years and rends on the expression of the feature unchanged,

Messrs. Lippincott & Son. Undertakers, Pasadema, Cal. GENTLEMEN:—The mortal remains of our dear son Howard arrived safely on Wednesday the 4th inst. and were laid to rest in our family lot at Pennington on Saturday the 7th, and so well had the features and expression been preserved that on the twelfth day after his death he looked as if sleep, and we could hardly realize that we were in the presence of death, and it was the unanimous opinion of the large assembly of people who attended the funeral that the remains had been remarkably well preserved, and did not seem possible that the spirit had taken its flight two weeks before. The care you gave the remains of our dear boy is greatly appreciated by all of us, but it seems to me now that I can never think of the name of your beautiful city without a feeling of unutterable sadness and sorrow, but we do not doubt but that what has been our loss has been his eternal gain. Our Dress Goods Department IS BOOMING

Owing to the fact that this department is at its best now, being crowded with the very choicest fall and winter goods that money could buy, and all of which are being now offered at a tremendous sacrifice in price.

Black Goods This Week

The most tempting prices will rule for goods just received, and which are far ahead of anything yet seen in Los Angeles.

anteed thoroughly waterproof. The name "Cravenette" is stamped on every yard throughout the piece. The above goods must be seen to be appreciated, and comparison is an absolute necessity, in order to show their unprecedented values at the prices quoted. Our exquisite fall and winter stocks of carriage and street suit patterns (shaggy and long-haired goods predominating) must be sold this season, accordingly all are now being offered at ruinously low prices. You will certainly do yourselves a great injustice if you fail seeing those specially commend-

Statements of Eye-witnesses of the Shooting.

The First Shot Fired Inflicted the Fatal Wound.

The Dead Man's Back Was Turned When He Was Struck - Baxter Tormally Charged with the Crime.

Yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock Coroner Weldon held an inquest on the re-mains of the negro J. B. Ramsey, who was murdered the day before by his partner, George Baxter.

The wife of the deceased was the first witness. She stated that her dead husband was 38 years old and came to this city from Alabama five years ago.

Ex-Senator Cole was next sworn and stated that he was in the Phillips Block, where the murder was committed, at the time of the shooting. He was at the foot of the stairs when deceased, the murderer Baxter and Mack passed him. They stopped at the foot of the stairs and talked. Presently two of them—the deceased and Mack—passed upstairs. Witness heard them talk, indicating anger and ill-will. He looked dicating anger and ill-will. He looked and saw them go on up stairs. When they got half way up, Baxter followed, and a few steps from the middle landing Baxter shot Ramsey in the back. Witness saw it distinctly. Ramsey fell, but picked himself up and kept on up stairs. The defendant said something about getting his money. What it was witness did not remember. There were very few people there at the time. Witness' attention was attracted by the quarreling as they went upstairs. witness attracted by the quarreling as they went upstairs. Baxter shot again. It was the first shot, and not the second, that struck Ramsey in the back. The witness then looked at the body and recognized it as the man who was shot.

In response to a question by a juror the witness stated that the deceased said nothing in an ugly tone. The deceased's back was turned, and he appeared anxious to avoid a quarrel.

Ex-police Officer Todd was sworn, and stated that he averaged the transfer of the company of th stated that he overheard the two mer quarreling on the stairway, and Baxter threatened to shoot Ramsey, and almost inmediately he heard a shot and ran to the men. He came near being shot.

Ex-police Officer Vignes was also present and heard the negroes quarreling, and told how he arrested Baxter after the shooting. He heard Baxter threaten Ramsey just before the shooting. Witness arrested Baxter and assisted Police Officer Duran to take him sisted Police Officer Dugan to take him to the central station.

J. C. Mack, the negro who was with Ramsey and Baxter, was sworn and told about the same story that was published in THE TIMES yesterday.

Several other witnesses were sworn, but nothing new was brought out, and the jury found that Ramsey came to his death from a pistol shot wound and that the pistol was fired by Georke Baxter. Later in the afternoon Officer Vignes appeared before Police Justice Owens and swore to a complaint charging Baxter with murder. The warrant was served on him in the City Prison, where the murderer will remain until he has had his preliminary examination, when he will be taken to the County Jail, if he is held.

The land which will rise in value faster than any other in Southern California is that just west of Colton and north of Riverside,

The South Rialto Tract.

In five years it will be fully as high and worth as much as the best in Riverside or Redlands, being equal to theirs in excellence of soil, perfection of water rights, healthfulness of climate and desirability of location. Secure an orange orchard. Buy the land while it is cheap and set out your own trees; there is money in it. Call on or write to the undersigned and arrange to visit the tract with him.

VERY IMPORTANT!

To Those Who Have Learned the Lesson in . . GEOGRAPHY

And all others interested, I wish to say a few words further regarding the East Whittier property. A good many have made inquiries, some have purchased, but we still have choice locations. Those who come first will get the choice. We expect many eastern people here to locate during the winter. There is no question as to the richness of the soil and the beauty of location, or to its adaptability to orange raising, and it is pronounced by experts the very choicest of lemon land. Lemons and Oranges are without question the wealth-producing fruits of Southern California, and the one who has ten acres or more in bearing orchards of these fruits has a fortune, not for today but for a lifetime, continually increasing; better than a settled annuity. The mesa land on the southern slope of the Puente Hills, from the Eincon Gap eastward, beautiful, rich, sheltered, warm in winter, cool in sum-Gap eastward, beautiful, rich, sheltered, warm in winter, cool in summer, is the garden spot of Los Angeles county and Southern California; Whittier and East Whittier the choices of the choice. The magnificent East Whittier water system, with a capacity of 20,000,000 gals, daily now carrying 5,000,000 gals, makes the future of this tract been measured and show a variation of only 2 per cent from their flow when first open, establishing the permanency of the flow. For the present the price of the East Whittier tract is $200 per acre with water, and you get a clean title to both. The terms are liberal, one quarter down, balance in one, two and three years at 7 per cent. We have the proceeding the process of the company have just a liberal to be a superscript of the company have a superscrip quarter down, balance in one, two and three years at 7 per cent. We do not sell to speculators, only to those who will improve, 'thus-insuring the best class of people. The East Whittier tract is close to schools, both graded and primary, and to the Whittier 'Academy, just opened with most promising outlook; best of teachers and good attendance. A Friends' Church, with fine buildings and the most prosperous and largest society in Southern California. An M. E. Church, with a large and growing society and fine building. Also a Baptist society. Here you have all the advantages of suburban life and society, and a chance to make a beautiful home at low cost. Come and see the property and it will please you. property and it will please you. A gold dollar is worth 100 Cents

North, South, East or West. We have never been able to buy one for less. This fact should be considered by the would-be owner of an orange grove. A good: thing costs money, and is always the cheapest in the end. We are in receipt of dozens of letters inquiring why we are asking size per acre for Alessandro Land; while there are thousands of acres advertised in full length columns of as many newspapers at less than half the price.

Ours are Gold Dollars.

That never sell below par.

No prudent man will tayest his money in any of these wildcat schemes, promising great returns for a small outlay: they are very enticing to the weary toller on the stony farms of the Bast, looks well on paper, but never materialize; you put your money in but never get it back.

If you are coming to Southern California for health, profit, or both, you want to invest your money where there is not the least possible chance of failure. That place is

ALESSANDRO,

Which has everything in its favor: The most beautiful location; the finest climate in the world; the best soil; the best water right of any irrigation district in Southern California, and one of the strongest Companies back of it in the State, composed of men of unlimited means and business capacity, who have made a success of everything they have undertaken. Alessandro also owes its success not only to above, but largely to the character of the men who have come there to make it their future homes. A class of thrifty, intelligent, industrious men, who have already made their presence felt, and are living there today in moderate luxury, comfort and good health. With such a class of settlers already on the land and constantly arriving, we predict that

IN FOUR YEARS' TIME Alessandro will be the Model City of Southern California.

He who invests his money today in Alessandro lands takes no chances and makes no mistakes. The price is still $120 per acre. Every newcomer, every new length of pipe, every dollar laid out in improvement, increases the value of every acre of the bract. While you sleep your land grows in value. People, "plenty of them," are rich today who bought land in Redlands four years ago, simply by the advance. He who buys Alessandro land at $120 per acre will reap the same reward and more, for the advance will be more rapid and sure. Full description, particulars, maps, etc., sent on application to
